Medieval Graffiti – A Reminder

Medieval Graffiti, 22nd June

Just to remind you all the this Saturday, June 22nd, is our Medieval Graffiti day with Matt Champion of the Norfolk Medieval Graffiti Survey. We've got a morning session and an afternoon session so if you'd like to come along pick one of the two locations below.

At the west end of the Valley we will be visiting the church of St John the Baptist at Bressingham for the morning session at 10.30 am (TM077807 approx)

At the eastern end in the afternoon we will be visiting All Saints, Kirby Cane at 1.00 pm (TM375942 approx)

Each session will last for about 2 hours.

We hope we've covered both ends of the valley and we look forward to seeing you on the 22nd. It's going to be a fascinating day.

Bring a camera and take lots of pictures. We'd love to use some of them on our website and Twitter, with your permission of course.

And if all that wasn't enough, the Grain Brewery beer festival at Alburgh is on the same day, with Jimmy Denny's famous Alburgh lamb burgers.
